It's BACK

2021

South Sudan Oil & Power (SSOP), the nation's energy conference, returns to Juba on June 29-30, 2021 for its fourth edition, leading the future of investment and development in the country.

Organized under the auspices of the Ministry of Petroleum, the Ministry of Energy and Dams and the Ministry of Trade and Industry, SSOP 2021 strives to increase capital investments in hydrocarbons, infrastructure, power generation and technology and firmly establishes the nation's investment fundamentals post-COVID.

A decade after independence, South Sudan's government has prioritized road-building, oil industry participation and power projects as means to stimulate the economy. Added to political changes in 2020 and the holding of the 2018 peace settlement, these developments promise to make a huge impact on the lives and fortunes of South Sudan's businesses and people.

South Sudan Oil & Power, now in its fourth edition, takes place as COVID-19 recedes and investors look again at opportunities across a wide spectrum of economic activity in the country. Roads under construction will soon connect the far reaches of the country and the government will re-launch its licensing round for exploration blocks. Finance, as in our third edition, remains top of the agenda, with serious funding challenges to overcome and innovation needed.

With a wide coalition of government partners including the ministries of petroleum, energy and dams, and trade and industry, as well as national oil company Nilepet, Africa Oil & Power is working with the private and public sectors to drive a business-friendly narrative in South Sudan.

the AGENDA

OBJECTIVES

To attract new investment into South Sudan and launch a new era of investment for the country's energy sector and economy.

To promote South Sudan's attractive business environment and opportunities across the energy value chain.

To foster cross-sector partnerships and establish fruitful synergies between key areas of the economy.

To promote local content and the involvement of the national private sector through international partnerships.

To expose South Sudan's opportunities in the hydrocarbons sector and to find innovative and new means of raising capital for projects.

The conference is organized under the auspices of the President of the Republic of South Sudan H.E. Gen. Salva Kiir Mayardit.

WHY ATTEND SOUTH SUDAN OIL & POWER

1 OFFICIAL CONFERENCE

SSOP is the only official event in the country centered around the energy sector spanning the entire value chain.

2 INNOVATION IN FINANCE

South Sudan's government will use SSOP 2021 to seek and gain feedback from industry participants on how to finance projects.

3 DISCOVER OPPORTUNITIES

South Sudan boasts strong potential for oil and gas E&P while it returns to pre-crisis production levels.

4 ENERGY FOR THE ECONOMY

The government has placed the energy sector at the center of the equation for economic growth. SSOP 2021 will showcase how the whole energy value chain offers tremendous investment opportunities.

why SOUTH SUDAN?

GOVERNMENT SUPPORT

South Sudan's government encourages investors to consider the country as a safe business destination while highlighting substantial onshore oil potential and a commitment to developing an indigenous, transparent and technologically advanced local oil and gas industry.

AN ATTRACTIVE BUSINESS ENVIRONMENT

Resumption of production at several key oilfields in South Sudan, a landmark peace deal celebrated in October 2018 and unprecedented cooperation with neighboring Sudan and Egypt point to improving investment conditions.

POWER DEVELOPMENT AND SOCIAL INCLUSION

Power development is a key topic for the South Sudanese government with Juba recently electrified and power being installed in regional cities. It is also making sure oil operators in the country invest in community development by building roads and other projects around their operating areas.

A COUNTRY FULL OF OPPORTUNITY

As the youngest country in the world, South Sudan boasts numerous investment opportunities across sectors such as energy, telecommunications and hospitality, among others. South Sudan is ready for business.
